Meet the designer, PAUL RENNER

German typographer, graphics designer, painter & teacher.

Renner admired the functionalist strain in modwernism.

"The truly modern is what we hold today to be timelessly perfect." "The truly modern is what we hold today to be timelessly perfect." "The truly modern is what we hold today to be timelessly perfect."

Futura was designed as a key contribution to the

NEW FRANKFURT PROJECT

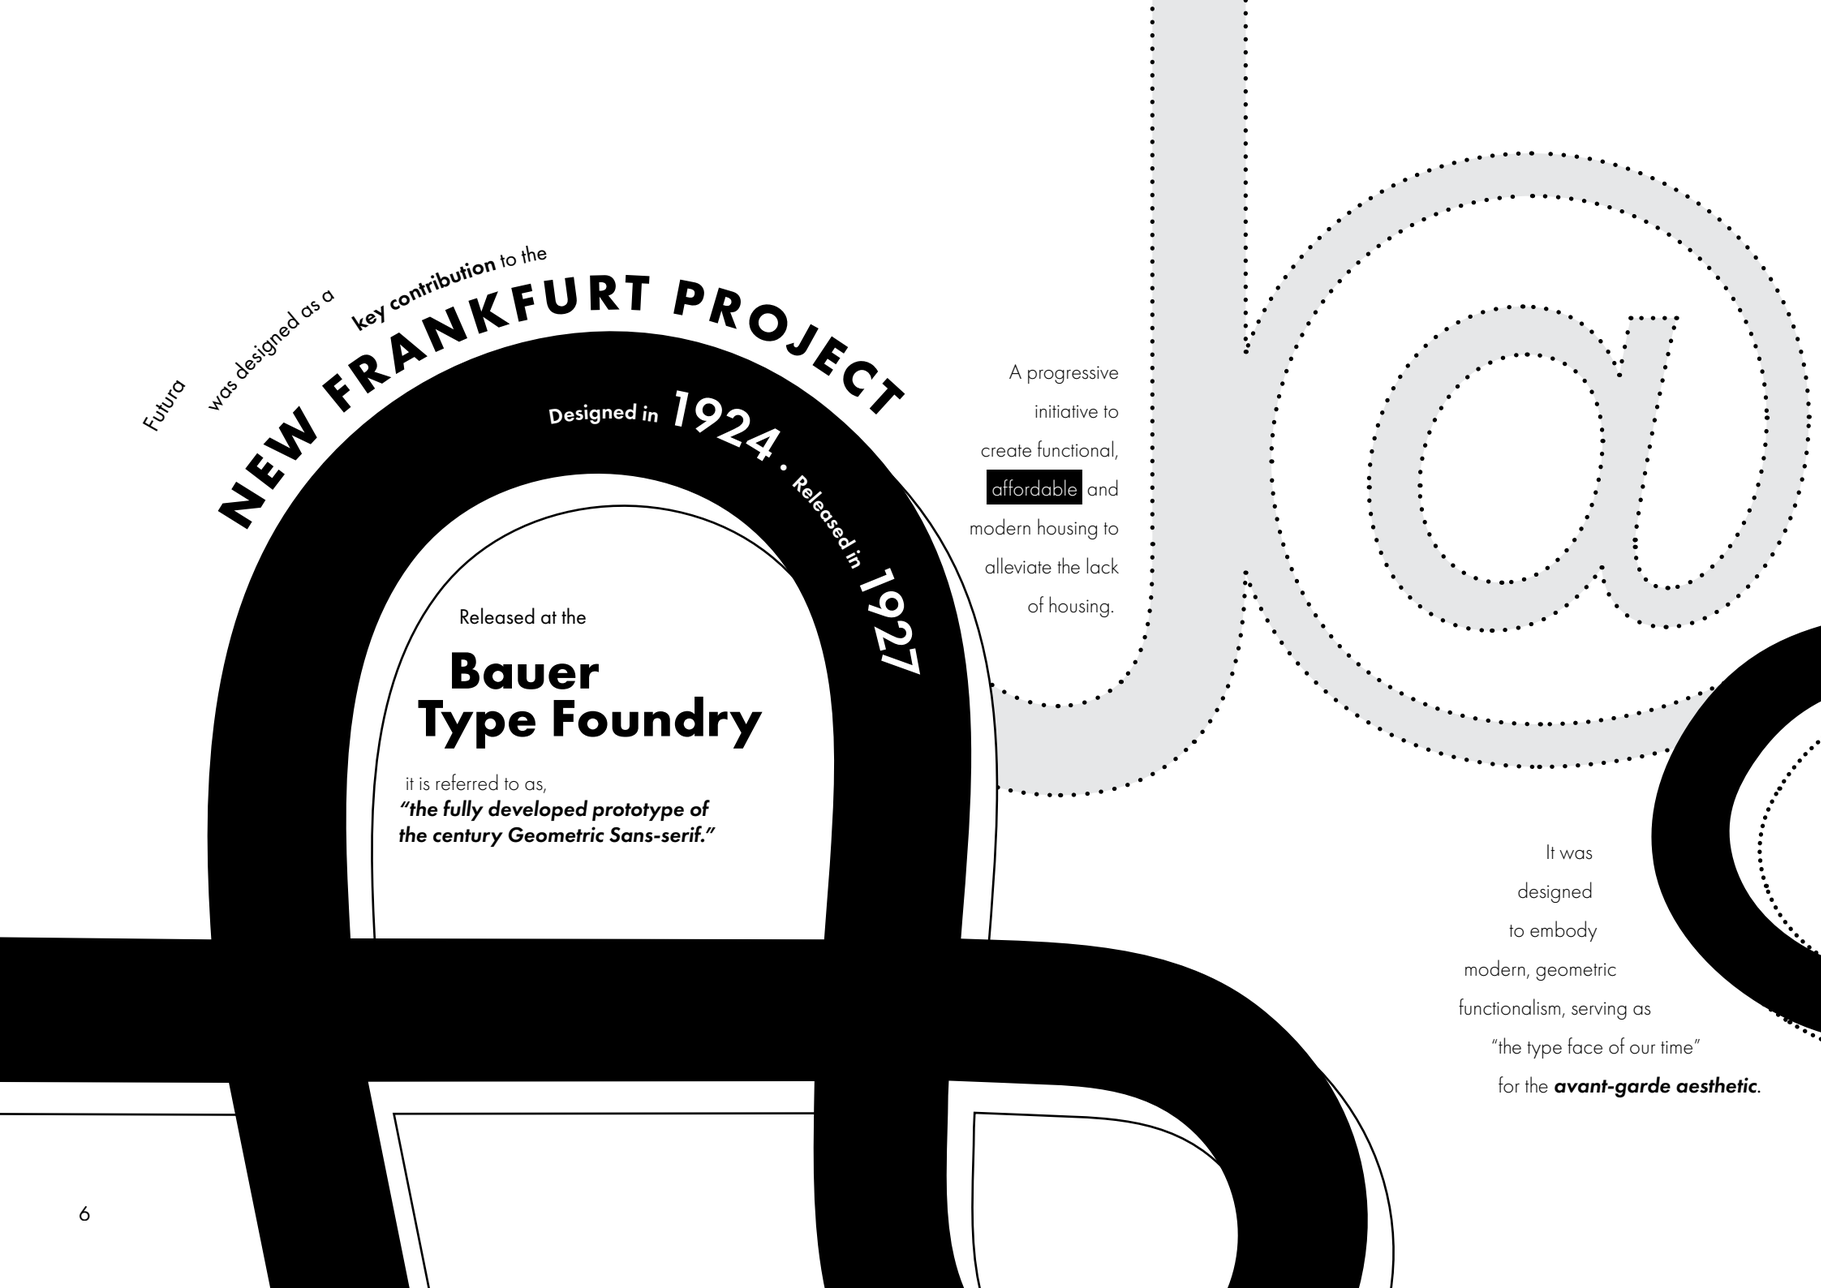

Designed in 1924. Released in 1927

Released at the

Bauer Type Foundry

it is referred to as,
"the fully developed prototype of the century Geometric Sans-serif."

A progressive initiative to create functional, affordable and modern housing to alleviate the lack of housing.

It was designed to embody modern, geometric functionalism, serving as "the type face of our time" for the avant-garde aesthetic.

Although the characters are based on geometric shapes, they are not perfect.

Adjustments were made to ensure the typeface is highly legible.

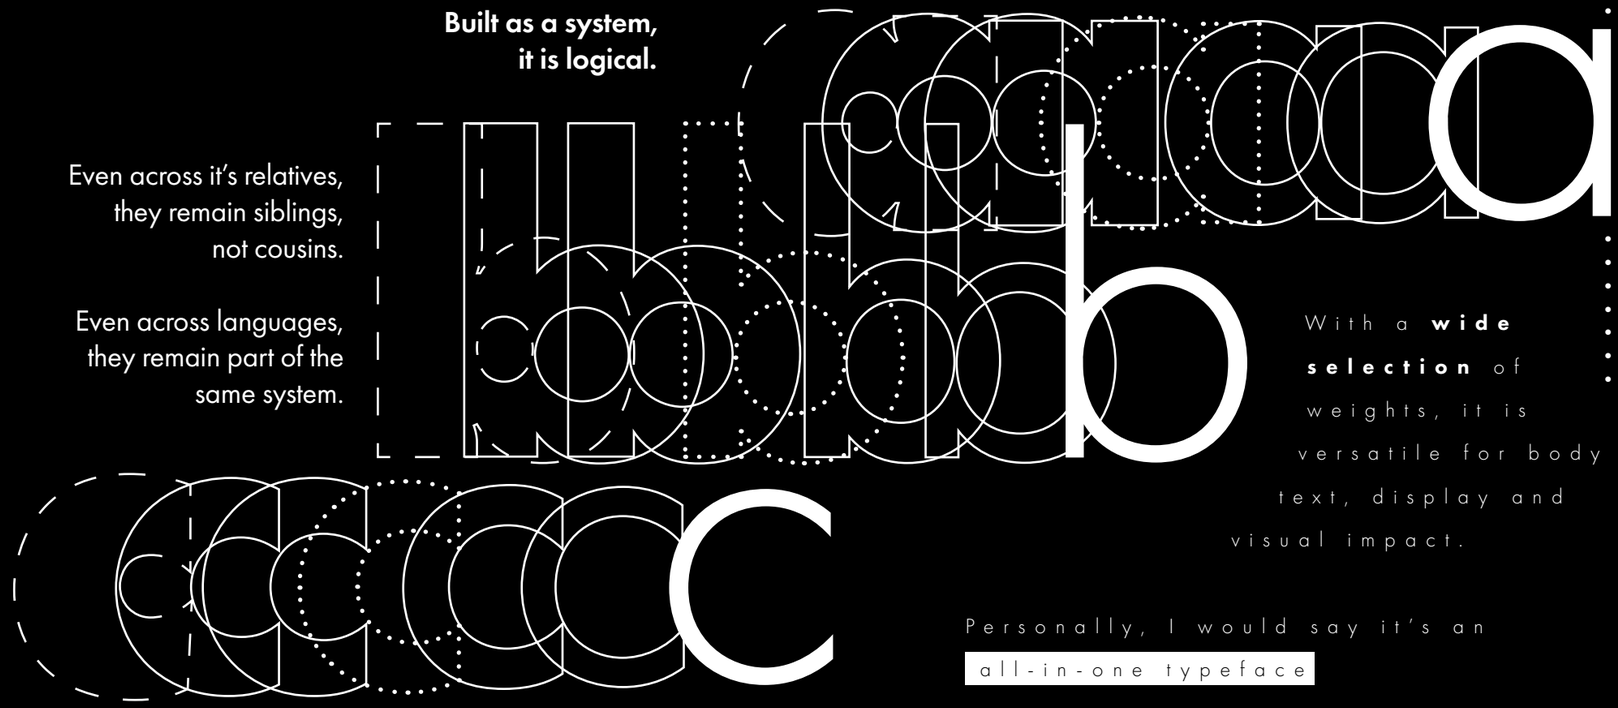

Geometric, but not all equal.

Built as a system, it is logical.

Even across it's relatives, they remain siblings, not cousins.

Even across languages, they remain part of the same system.

Did you know that Futura supports over 100 languages within the Latin script?

With a wide selection of weights, it is versatile for body text, display and visual impact.

Personally, I would say it's an all-in-one typeface

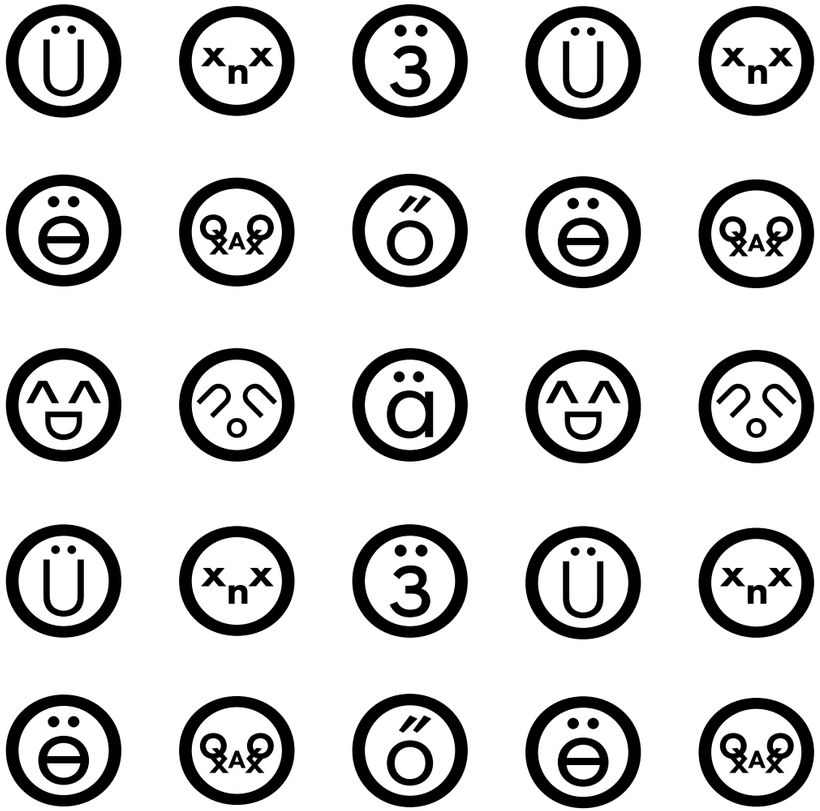

Futura has been used in a variety of well-known brands due to its timeless design, boldness as well as clarity.

Notably, Nike & Red Bull uses Futura as the blueprint for their core branding typeface.

Both brands embody a sense of movement & boldness.

It can be playful.

The structural properties of Futura makes it visually proportionate.

It can be orderly & fuss-less.

AFRICA

3,000,000 YEARS AGO

A1
VIEWS OF AFRICAN DRYLANDS - DROUGHT

The remorseless drought had lasted now for ten million years, and would not end for another million. The reign of the terrible lizards had long since passed, but here on the continent which would one day be known as Africa, the battle for survival had reached a new climax of ferocity, and the victor was not yet in sight. In this dry and barren land, only the small or the swift or the fierce could flourish, or even hope to exist.

INT & EXT CAVES - MOONWATCHER

The man-apes of the field had none of these attributes, and they were a[illegible] ro[illegible]ic[illegible]ction. About twen[illegible] ha[illegible] ov[illegible]ing a small, parch[illegible] ha[illegible] ow[illegible]am.

The tribe had always been hungry, and now it was starving. As the first dim glow of dawn creeps into the cave, Moonwatcher discovers that his father has died during the night. He did not know the Old One was his father, for such a relationship was beyond his understanding. but as he stands looking down at the emaciated body he feels something, something akin to sadness. Then he carries his dead father out of the cave, and leaves him for the hyenas.

Among his kind, Moonwatcher is almost a giant. He is nearly five feet high, and though badly undernourished, weighs over a hundred pounds. His hairy, muscular body is quite man-like, and his head is already nearer man than ape. The forehead is low, and there are great ridges over the eye-sockets, yet he unmistakably holds in his genes the promise of humanity. As he looks out now upon the hostile world, there is already something in his gaze beyond the grasp of any ape. In those dark, deep-set eyes is a dawning awareness-the first intimations of an intelligence which would not fulfill itself for another two million years.

A3
EXT THE STREAM - THE OTHERS

As the dawn sky brightens, Moonwatcher and his tribe reach the shallow stream.

The Others are already there. They were there on the other side every day - that did not make it any less annoying.

There are eighteen of them, and it is impossible to distinguish them from the members of Moonwatcher's own tribe. As they see him coming, the Others begin to angrily dance and shriek on their side of the stream, and his own people reply In kind.

The confrontation lasts a few minutes - then the display dies out as quickly as it has begun, and everyone drinks his fill of the muddy water. Honor has been satisfied - each group has staked its claim to its own territory.

them, competing with them for the samr fodder, is a potential source of more food than they could ever hope to eat. Yet all the thousands of tons of meat roaming over the parched savanna and through the brush is not only beyond their reach; the idea of eating it is beyond their imagination. They are slowly starving to death in the midst of plenty.

EXT PARCHED COUNTRYSIDE - THE LION

The tribe slowly wanders across the bare, flat countryside foraging for roots and occasional berries.

Eight of them are irregularly strung out on the open plain,
about fifty feet apart.

The ground is flat for miles around.

Suddenly, Moonwatcher becomes aware of a lion, stalking them about 300 yards away.

Defenceless and with nowhere to hide, they scatter in all directions, but the lion brings one to the ground.

Have you watched the film?

If you haven't, just know that it's a groundbreaking film that is coined as "pure cinema".

It redefined science fiction, & guess which typeface they used ?

You know it, it was Futura.

How stunning is a typeface for it to earn a ticket to space in real life too!

EXT
DEAD TREE -
FINDS HONEY

It had not been a good day,
though as Moonwatcher had no
real remembrance of the past he could not compare one day with another. But on the way back to the caves he finds a hyena sees in the stump of a dead tree, and so enjoys the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] se, he [illegible] [illegible] notices [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Have you noticed Futura yet?

You've now seen Futura in Red Bull & Nike - the 'common, everyday' stores and brands.

But did you know that it's used in luxury brands as well?

Modified, but still unmistakably Futura.

From the heritage vibes of New York founded Louis Vuitton, to the modern sensuality of Italian brand Dolce & Gabbana, to the sportiness of Calvin Klein.

It's not meant to be flashy nor decorative, it is logical, systematic & mathematical in nature.

This allows for usage across different purposes and intentions - its flexibility can be seen in our daily life.
